

THE TOWNS AROUND.

ABOUT ten o'clock last Monday evening the barn of Ed. Emery, Jr., was seen from the village to be on fire. The alarm was sounded, but as the fire on the Connecticut river was not safe for teams, the engine was left at home and the company went over on the ice on foot. A ter two hours of hard work with pails the house was saved. Everything else, two barns, a circular silo and sheds were burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is a mystery as every one was in bed when Mr. Emery returned from the lodge and found the big barn on fire.

Monday and Tuesday the village was full of would-be school teachers who were busy taking the examinations.

Those who attended the lecture Tuesday evening by Rev. Thomas Tiller on "Why I left the Romish church," were well repaid.

The young ladies who had charge of the Sabbath School concert of last Sabbath are to be commended for the success of the occasion, which was due to their efficient efforts in carrying out a well arranged programme.

WEST BURKE. Golden Wedding.

About eighty people attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Powers on Tuesday, March 30. A bountiful dinner was served from 12 until 2 furnished by Mrs. Powers. Rev. P. N. Granger of Irasburg made some timely remarks, responded to feelingly by Mr. Powers. Rev. P. N. Granger's uncle, by the same name, married Mr. and Mrs. Powers 50 years ago. Ramsel Johnson of West Concord and David Johnson of Newark, brothers of Mrs. Powers, and her sister, Mrs. Steel of Stanstead were present at the wedding fifty years ago. A beautiful poem was read, written for the occasion by Mr. Townsend, also one by Miss Rose Cummings, George Smith and A. L. Aldrich. Letters sent by three granddaughters in California, were read, also one from a niece in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Will Smith of Worcester and Mrs. S. A. Nelson of Boston. George Smith arranged the fine paper on the Powers family and David Johnson, one on the Johnson family. Rev. G. H. Wright offered prayer and all sang the doxology. There were relatives and friends present from Burlington, Wells River, Bradford, West Concord, St. Johnsbury, Lyndonville, Satton, Newark, Newport, Irasburg, and Stanstead, P. Q.

The bride was decked in flowers sent by the granddaughters from California, who also sent bouquets for the tables. The presents were fine and numerous. A beautiful clock and gold-bowed spectacles were presented by the granddaughters; silver berry spoon, gold lined, a gold lined bon dish and a $5 gold piece from friends in Burlington; two gold lined dessert spoons from Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cowles of St. Johnsbury; a gold thimble from Mrs. Steele; silver salt and pepper shaker, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Lyndonville; $3 in gold from a cousin in Bradford; a china sugar bowl and creamer, gold ornamented, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood of St. Johnsbury; six gold banded tumblers, Rev. G. H. Wright and wife; gold banded china cake plate, Mrs. Erastus Way; gold banded cracker jar, Dr. and Mrs. Steep; gold berry cup from friends at Wells River; ink well and tray and gold pen, gold lined orange set and many other presents were sent by friends. Quite a sum of money was presented by the friends in town. It was a day long to be remembered by the many friends who were there.

GREENSBORO. Most of the sick ones are on the gain.

Our item last week in regard to the death of Mr. Goodrich, was slightly incorrect. Mr. Goodrich's home was in Woburn, Mass., instead of Malden, and he left three little boys instead of two, as we reported.

Miss Rena Goodrich has returned home, after attending her brother's funeral.

There is talk of a cheese factory here.

Miss Mabel Guild will teach the village school another year.

HARDWICK. J. H. Drew of St. Johnsbury was in town Tuesday and Wednesday on business.

The "O" supper held by the United Workers at the Congregational church prior to Tuesday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all. About $10 was realized for the church treasury. The drink list was: Opposite Oasis, Ordinary Oolong, Obrian's Odors, Obdurate Oblongs turned out to be simply baked beans. Ovarious Orates, nothing but boiled eggs. Ornate Ostentations took the cake and Obscure Originals was the very proper name for mince pie. Obsolete O's and Ominous Order brought to your plate roast beef and pork. Overland Outcomes and Opaque Overland Outcomes were funny names for white bread and brown bread. Butter and cheese went to the table under the assumed name of Ornamental Offerings. Oblegious Orals, alias doughnuts. Dessert, Out of Order, Toothpicks.

Sugar makers report large runs of sap Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The sugar made so far is of extra quality.

The sleighing is all gone in the village and wagons have come back for good.

The younger son of Willis Still is at work for the firm of Taylor & Welch.

Stephens, Stevenson and Michael have formed a partnership for the manufacture of granite monuments.

J. H. McLeod's block on the corner is undergoing a considerable amount of repairs. The ground floor occupied by Taylor & Welch has been changed by taking out the stairway that went up in the center of the building thereby putting the whole of the front of the ground floor into one large room. The front windows will be replaced by large plate glass throughout, 8 1/2 feet high, giving fine show windows. The second floor is being cut up into office rooms. Taylor & Dalton will occupy the southwest corner rooms for their law office, making them a very fine location. A. B. Thomas will also have a law office on this floor. The third floor will be remodeled for the Knights of Pythias, giving them commodious and pleasant quarters.

within five years, and seemed younger and stronger than he really was. He will be missed in every circle where the good man is usually found, and neither young or old will soon forget the earnestness and pathos of his address to his young friends on the last Sunday evening when he was permitted to be in the meeting house of his love.

The service at his late residence on Tuesday was conducted by Rev. P. B. Fisk, (whom he desired to perform this office for him when he should have passed away), assisted by Rev. E. F. Clark, the Methodist pastor in charge, who had also ministered to him in his last sickness. To Mr. Fisk he said, when arranging (on the 22nd) for this final service, "I want you to come and say a few words to my neighbors and friends over my poor body. Will you?" And then he reaffirmed his own unworthiness, shortcoming, and helplessness save for the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, even though he had endeavored to obey His commandments, and walk humbly before Him. All those who have known his Godly walk and conversation can understand both the confession and the faith. "I do not know or believe that I have an enemy," he said.

Rev. Mr. Clark opened the service with a brief reading of scripture and prayer. Mr. Fisk made a brief address from Prov. 14: 22, "the righteous hath hope in his death," dwelling textually on the three important words, and exhorting all others to aim also for that goal. The scriptures on which this hope rests were read at the close of the address.

The Christian Endeavor society, many members of which were present, sent their token of affection in a beautiful pillow of flowers, surrounding their well known initials. A mounted wreath of similia, jessamine and roses contained the words, "Gode's Walter," was placed near the well loved face of the sleeper, it being the token of the immediate family. Between the two flower-pieces already named was a bank of Easter lilies, callas, roses and carnations, brought by the relatives from Providence, R. I., and two palm branches crossed and tied with a bunch of Easter lilies, represented the love and confidence of a sister, while pansy geraniums, from Waterford, and dotted plants in bloom, and many cut flowers from the neighbors, heightened the colors, and testified to the esteem of all for the good man.

The service at the cemetery was very brief—a word of prayer and benediction, emphasizing the "resurrection and the life"—and those who "sorrow not without hope" dispersed to take up again their several duties.

Mr. McFarland is slowly improving.

Miss Jennie Williams, who has been visiting at Mr. Learned's, returned home last Thursday.

Mrs. James Learned was called to Littleton Thursday on account of the illness of her sister.

Letters to St. Johnsbury People.

Mrs. Hooker, St. Johnsbury.

MADAM—Mrs. William Martin, 55 Washington street, Fushing, N. Y., says our Harmless soap has reduced her soap bill from $13 a year to $7.50.

She keeps a boarding house and uses lots of soap. Before using Harmless she used to buy a quarter's worth of soap a week (6 cakes). At first she bought only five bars of Harmless at a time; used three a week.

As her yard she bought Harmless by the box—100 bars. It lasted over a year. After it became dry she didn't use over two bars a week; in some cases only three bars in two weeks. Figure this out by the year: Six cakes a week @ 25c . . . $13.00 a year One box Harmless—100 bars . . . 7.50 a year

A saving of $5.50 a year. It's old saying that "the soap that costs most by the pound costs least by the year," but it's a true one. Mrs. Martin has learned that a high priced soap is a great deal cheaper than a low priced.

Yours truly, C. H. Post & Co., Newburgh, N. Y.

After using a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm you will be sure to buy the 50 cent size. Cream Balm has no equal in curing catarrh and cold in head. Ask your druggist for it or send 10 cents to us.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

I suffered from catarrh three years; it got so bad I could not work; I used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and an entire week; I would not be without it. A. C. Clarke, 341 Shawmut Ave., Boston.

Extreme cold produces on the skin the same sensations as those due to extreme heat, so that if a person touch a piece of cold iron which has been subjected to intense frost the result is the same as if the piece of iron had been drawn from the fire nearly red hot.

A FEMALE MEMBER.

EVERY GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS HAS CONTAINED A WOMAN.

It is a Weakness of the Sex, and They Are Frequently Very Clever—Some of the Women Who Have Been Convicted of Making and Passing "Queer" Money.

Women have a weakness for counterfeiting. The first person ever executed for that crime was a woman. She was an English woman named Barbara Spencer and was put to death in 1721 for making false shillings. She was strangled and burned at the stake. Curiously enough, her accomplices were acquitted.

Nancy Kidd was one of the most remarkable female counterfeiters ever known in this country. She belonged to a family of noted forgers. She carried on her nefarious trade for more than 30 years in Chicago, and was arrested there many times. On one of these occasions a lot of fiber paper was discovered on her person. The government officials were completely at a loss to know how she had obtained this. Finally she confessed that a chemical solution had been used to wash the faces of the notes and make them perfectly clean. This she was in the habit of taking $1 bills and changing them into larger denominations. The government authorities released her in return for this valuable information and for telling them what the solution was. However, they had her shadowed by detectives and finally caught her with $17,000 worth of counterfeit money in a box. She was found guilty upon seven different indictments for counterfeiting and was sentenced to eight years in the state prison, where she finally died.

One of the cleverest tricks ever played on Uncle Sam was invented by a woman who lived in Philadelphia. Her plan was to take $10 and $20 goldpieces and with a small drill worked by steam power to bore out the insides and then refill them with some base metal, being very careful that they should weigh exactly the right amount when she had finished. This she accomplished by drilling through the milled edge of the coin, and then, after filling the hole, cover it with a little of the extracted gold. In this way she made $7.50 on every eagle and about $10 on every double eagle. The officials of the secret service say that this is the safest device ever invented for cheating the treasury.

Counterfeiting is very apt to run in families. This, of course, is natural, as a father brings up his son or daughter to follow his profession. Women who would otherwise be good are often led into this sort of crime by marrying men who carry it on as a business. But sometimes it works the other way—women teach their husbands how to make false money. This is what happened when Ben Boyd married Mary Ackerman of Indiana. Her father was one of the most successful counterfeiters of his day, and his daughter had a thorough acquaintance with the art. Mrs. Boyd carefully taught her husband all the secrets of the trade, and he became one of the most famous forgers of the age.

They carried on the business with such a high degree of skill that they were not captured for years, and when at last the secret service Hawks had them they turned down not a single counterfeit plate, note or coin when in their possession. When their house was searched, $8,000 in good money was found. This small amount was all the money they had accumulated during all their years of crime. Of course the officials could not touch it. Afterward sufficient evidence was secured to convict them, and they were sent to prison. They both claimed to be converted while in state prison, and after their release settled in Chicago, where they apparently lived an honest life.

A case that annoyed the secret service very much was that of a woman who engaged a clever lodge. She went to a jewelry shop and selected a valuable shawl. She paid for this shawl, handed the clerk a United States treasury note for $1,000. He took the money and disappeared, not returning for several minutes. When he came back, she asked him why he had kept her waiting, and he confessed that he had taken the bill to a bank near by to be sure that it was good. She pretended to be very angry and said that she would not buy the shawl on any account and walked out of the shop. A little later in the day she returned and said that as she could not find any other shawl that suited her as well in the other shops she had decided to take it in spite of the insult offered her. She gave him the $1,000 bill, and getting the shawl and the change, left the shop. The owner of the shop afterward discovered that the note he finally accepted was a counterfeit. The first bill had been good, but on her return she gave him the false one, which was a wonderfully clever imitation. The secret service was much agitated about this and several others of the $1,000 bills which turned up, but they have since captured the plates.

Practically every gang of counterfeiters ever arrested has had women associates. In the office of the secret service in Washington there is a large frame, 4 feet square, filled with the photographs of women who have either made or passed false money. Men almost always employ their wives or daughters for the purpose of "showing" their counterfeiters. —Washington Post.

Set Out Trees in the Spring. Spring is a better time to set trees than fall, because at that season trees are beginning to grow and will, therefore, be in a condition to respond more readily to treatment, while in fall they are unlikely to establish themselves before cold weather sets in. Preserve the roots to the fullest possible extent and do not disturb the tree until after it has ripened and has shed its foliage. If the roots are cut away, as they almost invariably are in spring planting, be sure to cut back the top proportionately. —Eben E. Rexford in Ladies' Home Journal.

No Cleveland in Hers.

A staff correspondent of the New York World is responsible for the story that the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan refused to shake hands with President McKinley's brother because she would not recognize a "Kinley man." This isn't half so good a story as an actual occurrence in St. Albans about a dozen years ago. The six year old daughter of an earnest Vermont republican, who like her father was dreadfully disappointed at the defeat of Blaine and the election of Cleveland in 1883, found in the kitchen a can of "Cleveland baking powder," the contents of which she poured into the swill pail, throwing the can as far into the street as her strength would admit.—[St. Albans Messenger.]
